

Water Tower Additions Help Fund Village Recreation Events

For years the water tower located in the heart of the Village provided water to the citizens of the community. Now the tower helps provide funds that support the recreational opportunities enjoyed by citizens.

Over the last few months you might have noticed workers installing panels on the tower. The panels provide signals for cell phone providers T-Mobile and AT&T.

The companies pay rent for the space to the Village. The rent is used to help fund special events sponsored by the Village's Recreation Division such as the Easter Egg Hunt and Electric Light Parade.

In addition to helping signals for T-Mobile and AT&T, panels also help provide signals for the Village wi-fi.

The tower was built in the early 1930s after Los Lunas was incorporated in 1928. It was the primary source of water for the Village until the late 1980s.

The structure at the base of the tower, called the Archuleta Building, now houses the Village Museum of Heritage and Arts.

The Archuleta Building once held equipment used by Valencia County Cable to provide service in the area. That use evolved into the placement of panels on the tower to facilitate obtaining signals for service providers.

Using the old water tower has minimized the number of towers in the area, points out Michael Jaramillo, Community Services Director. The Recreation Division is part of the Community Services Department.

The water tower now has the maximum number of panels it can hold. Jaramillo said there are other towers in the village that providers could use to enhance service.

When you look at the tower note that the panels are laid against the railings rather than sticking out from the railings. Part of the work accomplished the last few months has been replacing older panels.

Focus on Los Lunas Local Business

Best friends Nicole Golino and Kerry Trujillo opened Crown Boutique in December 2012.

It is located at 336 Main Street in a round adobe house, 865-4152. It can be found online at facebook.com/crownboutique.

Crown Boutique has women's clothing, jewelry, handbags and gifts for all occasions. The price point is $16 for a necklace up to $56 for a dress.

The owners say they want to offer affordable trendy clothing and save area women a trip to Albuquerque or anywhere else.

Nicole and Kerry look forward to seeing you soon at Crown Boutique!

Route 66 Tees (formerly Sam's Tire) has undergone an astonishing wall to wall transformation.

It has gone from a shop selling tires to a hot-rod themed, custom T-shirt print shop.

The same family dedicated to providing fast and friendly service at the tire shop for over 25 years is now providing the same great service in the custom T-shirt business.

Owner of Route 66 Tees is Sam Brown, 508-8696. Address is 100 U.S. Highway 314, the corner of Highway 314 and Main Street. The business can be found online at route66tees@live.com.

Come on in and see what they offer in silk screen, heat press, and custom design.

Get your T-shirt fix on Route 66!

November Bond Issues Help Village

Bond issues on the November 2014 General Election ballot will benefit the community, explains Los Lunas Public Library Director Cynthia J. Shetter.

A total of 189 separate projects at senior centers around the state would be funded with $17 million including $300,000 for the Fred Luna Senior Center, also called the Fred Luna Multigenerational Center.

An $11 million bond issue to fund libraries statewide would bring an estimated $53,000 to the Los Lunas Public Library; $65,000 for Los Lunas Schools; and $22,000 for the University of New Mexico-Valencia Campus (UNM-VC).

A $141 million bond issue for 30 higher education and special school projects includes $1 million for health and safety infrastructure improvements at UNM-VC.

Building Your Brand

By Ralph L. Mims, Economic Development Manager

It's been a great journey over the past 16 months sharing marketing tips with you as we build our brands together. In the near term the Village is reformatting the newsletter and will discontinue our column here. However, we will continue to share branding information through blogs and our economic development website at www.acommunitythatworks.com.

Through this column you've learned your brand resides in the minds of your customers based upon the direct and indirect experiences they've shared with your company. Therefore the brand is different for every customer.

You've also learned that a brand is "simply everything," comprised of your product, price, promotions, the ease for customers to find and buy your product, the people in your company, and the visual cues they see when they review your offerings such as your storefront, business card, or website.

You don't have to be all things to all people with your brand. You just want to make sure that your target customers think of you first when they make a purchase. We call this mindshare and the more they think of you when it's time to buy, the more market share you will capture. More market share means more profitability for your business.

As you continue to brand strong in 2014 remember that customer service is your best differentiator to make your product or service stand out.

Providing good customer service at every touch point of your company will turn your customers into brand lovers. And brand lovers will always seek your product out and tell others about how great your brand is as well.

As always, if you have questions on how to start or grow your business, give me a call; Ralph L. Mims, MCP; Economic Development Manager, Community Development Department; 839-5654, direct line; 604-4156, cell; or e-mail mimsr@loslunasnm.gov.

Also, you can visit our economic development website at www.acommunitythatworks.com.

Futures 2040 Details Transportation Plans

The Mid-Region Metropolitan Planning Organization (MRMPO) is now working on the region's long-range transportation plan, Futures 2040.

Futures 2040 is the update to the 2035 Metropolitan Transportation Plan (MTP) and will include projections and forecasts of what Albuquerque's greater metropolitan area, including Los Lunas, will look like in 20+ years from now in terms of population, employment, housing, number of vehicles on roadways, and other considerations.

The plan will evaluate how to invest in the transportation system to maintain and improve mobility, safety, and economic growth by determining what roads need to be built or improved, where transit investments should be made, and how to best provide bicycle and pedestrian infrastructure.

The plan supports coordinated transportation and land use planning to make the region as livable and sustainable as possible.

The MRMPO is responsible for long-range transportation planning in Bernalillo and Valencia Counties, Rio Rancho and parts of Sandoval County.

Meetings regarding Futures 2040 are being held in May and will also be held in the Fall. Drafts of the plan are expected in Spring 2015.

For more information go to the Middle Rio Grande Council of Governments website, mrcog-nm.gov, click on transportation at the left. There you will find information about transportation planning in the region including Futures 2040.
