Community Connect for COVID-19

Los Lunas, NM- Residents in Valencia County will now have access to Community Connect for COVID-19. Community Connect for COVID-19 offers residents an easy-to-use web portal, available on any device, where they can self-report critical information.

Within the web portal, residents will be able to share contact, symptom, test, and high-risk related information. Shared information will then be available to First Responders to better prioritize COVID-19 driven care or take proper precautions before entering.

This tool will allow fire and EMS agencies the ability to know better where citizens have self-isolated or self-quarantined themselves in their community. With this information at their fingertips, firefighters and EMS personnel will have a much clearer picture about who they are responding to and what their health situation is.

When should I self-report?

- If you have any COVID-19 related symptoms
- If you or family members are in self-quarantine due to possible exposure
- If you or family members have been tested but do not have results back yet
- If you have been to the doctor and not tested but told to stay home in self-quarantine due to symptoms
- If tested positive and in quarantine
- If you or a family member are at high risk
- If you have a family member who has a special need such as Alzheimer's/Dementia, Autism, etc.
